

XGBoost reliability by representation and atlas

Point area is proportional to the square root of the number of observations in the confidence bin; exact counts are supplied in CSV form.